Personally appeared before me, H. Krebs, a member of the Board of Police of Jackson County, Miss., Emanuel Deas, who upon oath says that there are twelve white women & children under his care and protection living on the farm upon which he resides; and that there is no white male adult living on the place not liable to military duty, or male minor or minors capable of working said farm. Said women and children consist of the said E. Deas' wife & seven children, his mother-in-law & her two grand-daughters & one orphan girl raised by his mother-in-law.

Also appeared before me, A. H. Delmar & Walter Denny, who upon oath say that they are well acquainted with the aforesaid Emanuel Deas, that the above statement made by him is as stated, that the said E. Deas designs in good faith to act in said capacity on said farm, to the best of their knowledge and belief.

ITEMS FROM HANCOCK COUN- TY.

For the Democrat-Star.

August 2, 1885.

Weather very hot with plenty of rain. Corn is already made, and the prospect for rice and sweet potatoes promising.

Items of interest are few and a long way between. However, it will be of great interest to the taxpayers of Marion and Hancock counties, more particularly those residing within the limits of the defunct "Pearl county," to knock the scales from their eyes that they may view their surrounding. (No es toto oio la que reluse.) Let us see who, and how many it will benefit to re-establish Pearl county, or to

WOMAN'S primitive beauty and vigor, which have been lost, can be restored and retained by the action of certain constitutional agents. These agents necessarily regulate, build up, fortify and antagonize all existing female irregularities and excesses, or obstructions which produce the ill health. The remedy must unload the locked up secretions, add iron to blood, strength to system and vitality to nerves. Such a remedy is found in the use of English Female Bitters.

This sad event has cast a gloom over our community, and I cannot help referring to some of the peculiar traits of his character and disposition which had endeared Mr. Deas to so many of his personal friends and admirers. My acquaintance with Mr. Deas was only of five months, yet I had learned to appreciate his excellent qualities of heart and to honor his independent judgment. He was a man of remarkable energy. In looking after his family, in hunting up the needy and destitute, in ministering to their wants, in comforting the sick, in cheering the well, he never seemed tired. Whatever he had to do he did cheerfully and with all his might. He won the love and respect of many by his unflinching kindness. Mr. Deas was a man of rare independence of judgment. He never adopted the opinion of others, but held them subject to a severe analysis, and only accepted them when they accorded with his own well defined convictions. Whatever position he took, either as a friend, father or citizen, he took conscientiously and with determination, and upon his own judgment. He would recognize no human authority as before his own conscience or the conclusions of his own intellect.
